Additional information

In the Youtube channel Geethanjali Kids - Rhymes and Stories two Contents & Purpose playlists retell stories from ancient Greek mythologies: Ancient Greek mythological stories; Greek stories. The main Greek myths retold and animated for the children are: Apollo and Cassandra; Athena and Poseidon; Eros and Psyche; Hercules and the twelve labours; Hermes and Apollo; Daedalus and Icarus; Odysseus and the Cyclops; Pandora's box; Persephone; Perseus and Andromeda; Perseus and Medusa; Prometheus; King Midas; the King of Corinth and Hades; Theseus and the Minotaur. An off-screen narrator recounts mythical stories to children, covering their main points, as the stories are enacted by stylized silent characters in cartoon animations. The language is simple and suitable for a child audience. The narrative turning points are stressed through straight-forward comments and remarks which help add a didactic element to the story (for example, the story of Apollo and Cassandra is ended with a statement of 'counterfactual history': «Had she lived up to her end of the bargain with Apollo, things would have been quite different, right?»). The stories are modified for children, with sexual intercourses being presented as kisses, and characters performing evil deeds depicted not as evil, but rather, mistaken. Further comments The videos might be used as enjoyable educational support material, and might be recommended as a didactic adjunct for the children's autonomous homework. A previous knowledge of characters and
